Garbage collection serves two purposes:

- It covers for sloppy code

- It handles checkerboard type memory management within the process

- Prevents memory writes from overwriting object code or other critial sections.